

I built the website using Google's Map API. I have included different features using the API in my website. We can look for the temperature of any place using the website. We also can see the routes between two places in the website. Another feature about the website is that we can get the information about the places like its longitude, latitude, zipcode, county and state of a place. The basic feature of map which is finding the places around us is also included in the feature. I build this website using HTML, CSS, Javascript and little bit of JQuery and bootstrap.
